Description

A top-notch drift dive.

Along the outer reef edge: large schools of fish, hunting king mackerel, resident Napoleon wrasse, and frequent large schools of eagle rays. Many large groupers of various species. Gray sharks are often seen when the current is stronger. At the two tilas off the Faru, there are fantastically overgrown undercuts, plenty of schooling fish, and whitetip reef sharks. With a light current, this site is suitable for all skill levels. A stronger current here requires a fair amount of diving skill.
